RESCUE CREW BREAKS THROUGH INTO GOLD MINE

PROGRESS IN REACHING ENTOMBED MEN IS SLOW BUT SEARCHING PARTIES ARE
HUNTING INSIDE OF MINE FOR THEM

Broke Through at Seven O'clock This Morning
And Searchers Started
Inside Mine At Once.

FIND AIR IS GOOD

Hope reigned in the breasts of hundreds of relatives and friends of the entombed miners of the Argonaut Mine in California this morning when shortly after seven o'clock rescue crews broke through into the darkness of the death trap.

Fresh men making up an exploration and searching party immediately squeezed their way through the narrow aperture and began their search for the forty-seven miners who have been entombed for twenty-one days.

The Argonaut mine is one of extensive development and it will require some time to find the men whether they be dead or alive but all indications point to luck being in their favor. A strong air current was

N. Y. C. TO RESUME
SHOPMEN PARLEY
AFTER BREAKDOWN

Chicago, Sept. 17.—With the shopmen's peace plan threatened by outbreaks due apparently to misunderstandings and with the New York Central and the Southern railway announcing their failure to reach an agreement with the strikers, trade not participating in the Baltimore negotiations reported a rapid return to normal operation of their shops tonight.

In the case of the New York Central, a statement was issued by the road expressing willingness to fulfill the memorandum of agreement reached at Baltimore between D. M. Jewell, head of the strikers, and representatives of certain of the carriers, but it was asserted that representatives of the shopmen, who were to interject questions not mentioned in the text and clearly outside the agreement, insisting there must be included. The road also announced it would continue to employ men to fill existing vacancies in its shop forces, adding that it presently had 32,951 men at work, compared with a normal force of 35,192.

N. Y. C. Parley Set.
Jewell departed early tonight for New York, where he said he would enter into conference with the New York Central officials, Tuesday in the expectation of reaching a speedy agreement under the terms of the Baltimore plan. At noon headquarters it was said that only trivial differences prevented the signing of a separate peace with that road today. These differences, it was said, would be cleared away by submitting them to the arbitration board provided for in the Baltimore plan.

According to union leaders, the men on the following roads will return to work tomorrow: The Chicago & North Western, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Seaboard Air Line, and the Green Bay & Western.

U. S. BLIMP, C-2, REACHES
SAN ANTONIO

San Antonio, Sept. 17.—Completing the longest leg of its four-month flight and after a fairly eventful trip, the C-2 landed at Brooks Field here this afternoon, having covered 829 miles from St. Louis in 16 hours and 29 minutes.

An error of judgment on the part of the flight instructor, who was one of the years of the Ozark mountains came near causing disaster today, according to Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2. The peak was higher than believed and the C-2, sweeping through it, was sighted. A sharp turn at the last moment cleared the path.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Marshall and Tom Connolly, of Snow Shoe, spent the week-end with Clearfield relatives.

"Little Brother" Again.

I was dancing with "the only one" when I suggested that we sit on the next dance. We did not in the corner of the dark veranda. It was while we were engaged in a very fine dance that little Brother Bill, showing his new flashlight to some of the guests, accidentally flashed its rays on my wife. That's all.

FRANCE MOVES TO PREVENT BRITISH
ASSAULT ON TURK

Paris, Sept. 18.—France moved today to prevent Great Britain from carrying out her threatened campaign against Mustapha Kemal, victorious Turkish leader who has announced his intention of invading Constantinople and the Dardanelles. It is authoritatively stated that the French Government has dispatched a messenger to Kemal also with a request to forego his program in the interest of world peace.

Ottawa, Canada, Sept. 18.—The Canadian Cabinet met this morning at nine o'clock to consider the suggestion of the London Government that the Dominion join in the campaign to throw back the Turkish leader, Mustapha Kemal.

Constantinople, Sept. 18.—Great Britain has started movements of troops to reinforce the small garrison of 10,500 troops here who will soon be added against 100,000 victory-minded Turks. Transports are arriving with British men, guns and ammunition. It is reported that over a thousand Gordon Highlanders have disembarked from Gibraltar and as many more from the Island of Malta.

Berlin, Sept. 18.—Mustapha Kemal will not sanction a Near East peace conference unless the Soviet Government is given recognition. A Soviet official at the Berlin seat of government has received a message to this effect from Kemal. Russia wants representation at the proposed Venice conference and Kemal is committed to settling it for her.

SWOOP PRODUCE
PROOF IN ANSWER
TO CRITICISMS

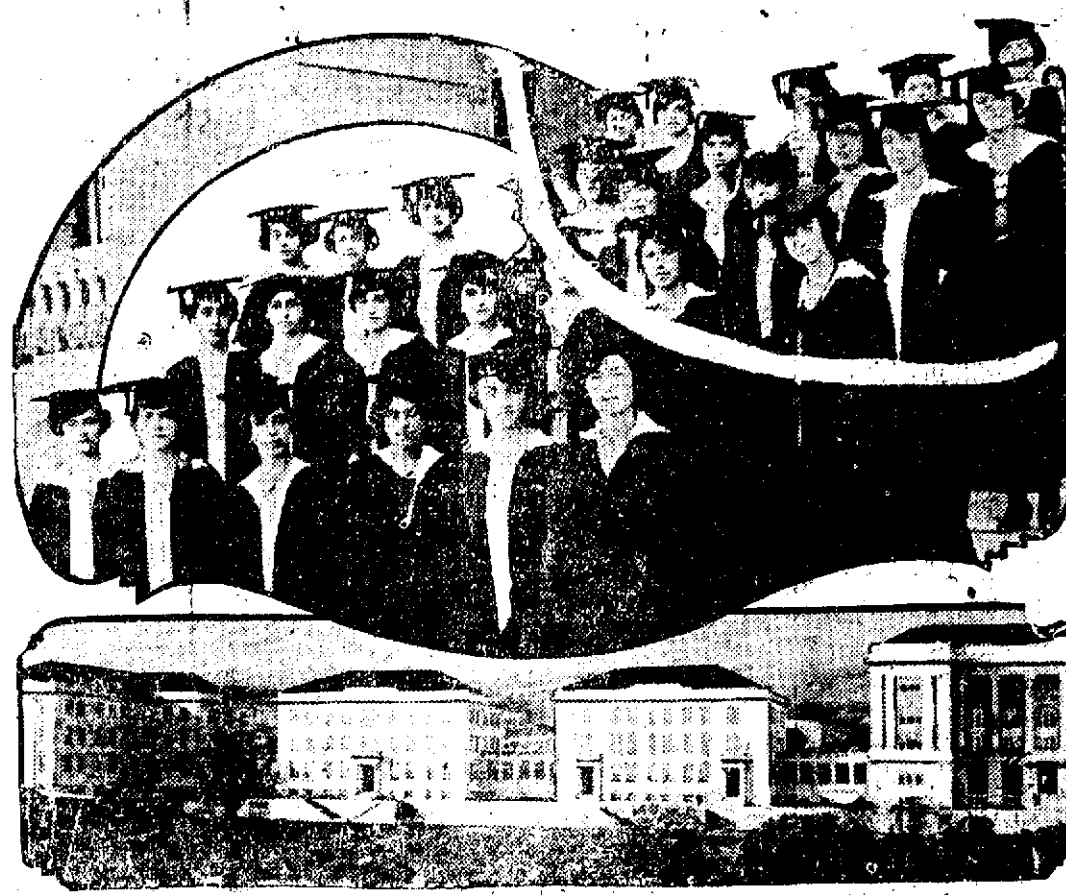

Deputy Attorney General William I. Swoope does not propose to let his political enemies put any holes in his political armor if he can help it, and while he says they can get all the glory they wish without calling him names, he will require them to stick to facts in the more important matters to be placed before the voters. Over at Center Hall last week Mr. Swoope let a few rats out of the bag concerning the manner in which Mr. McGowan and others received their nomination and concerning these remarks, Mr. Swoope issued the following statement this morning:

How the Democratic Ticket

Was Nominated
"One of the Democratic papers states that Mr. Swoope in his speech at Center Hall misrepresented the method by which the Democratic ticket was nominated. The facts, as published in the 'Harrisburg Patriot', were that a preliminary conference was held by the Democratic State chairman in Harrisburg, at which a few, certainly not more than twelve, of the Democratic leaders were present. This conference actually selected the Democratic State candidates and it was published in the papers that their names had been so agreed upon. The State Chairman then called a conference of seventy-two, the one of which the Democratic papers are possessed of any knowledge, and this conference was composed of thirty-six men and thirty-six women, and ratified the action of the preliminary conference; but this second conference was a mere form, and did nothing except what they were told to do. All these facts were published in the daily press at the time."

W. C. Miller, Pa., is attending court at Braddock, where he is involved in an important equity suit from Pennsylvania.

Mrs. D. Connolly is spending a couple of days with her daughter, Mrs. T. A. Marshall at Snow Shoe.

Grave fear is felt by Americans who have contributed thousands to the support of the American college at Constantinople for the safety of the college and its staff and students. The American college at Smyrna was burned. If the Turks seize Constantinople, the same fate may befall the college there. Below, the college; above a group of girl students, who may be seized for Turkish harems.

PHILIPSBURG MAN
SHOT BY GUN THAT
"WASN'T LOADED"

Zinton Bowers, aged 28, one of the proprietors of a Philipsburg hotel room, is a patient in the Cottage Hospital at that place, suffering from a serious gun shot wound in the neck, the same being accidentally inflicted by a 22-calibre gun in the hands of William Rickard, also of Philipsburg.

Bowers and Rickard visited the plant of the Good Service Veneering Company on Second street, Philipsburg, this morning. The workmen about the place had been bothered by rats and had been using a 22-calibre rifle to shoot the rodents with. When Rickard came in he picked up the gun, a repeater, which had had the shell removed from the barrel. He put the gun to his shoulder, thinking it unloaded from his superficial glance and proceeded to work the slide. When he threw forward the slide a cartridge was forced from the magazine into the barrel and not knowing he had loaded it, Rickard pointed the gun at Bowers and pulled the trigger. With the report of the gun Bowers staggered and fell, with blood spurting from a wound on either side of his throat, as the bullet had entered the left side of the neck and passed out the right side.

Bowers was quickly removed to the hospital, where his injuries were attended to and where it was found the bullet had fortunately just missed both the jugular vein and wind pipe and he has a fighting chance to recover.

BARR SPANGLER, 100
DIES IN MARIETTA

Marietta, Pa. Sept. 17.—Earr Spangler, 100 years old, banker and retired merchant, died today after a brief illness. He was the oldest bank president in the United States, being the last charter member of the First National Bank, of Marietta. He was born January 13, 1822.

Mr. Spangler was a member of the First Methodist Episcopal church. He was a candidate for Governor on the prohibition ticket and the last survivor of the Sons and Daughters of Temperance, organized before the Civil War. He leaves two children, six grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

DETECTIVES MINGLE WITH MOURNERS TO
GET MURDER CLUES

Rev. Edw'd Hall Buried
Today. Mrs. Miller To
Be Buried Tomorrow;
No Time To Murderer.

BODIES CARRIED

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 18.—Detectives mingled with the crowd which gathered about the biers of the Rev. Edward Hall, rector of the fashionable Episcopal church here and Mrs. Jas. Miller, wife of the church sexton, both of whom were found dead after having been shot, beaten and stabbed, in an effort to detect a head that will give them a clue.

Investigation has revealed that the double murder likely took place in New Brunswick after which the bodies were placed in a car and carried to the luncheon grave on an abandoned farm. The slayers had carefully scattered some small coins, letters and personal effects about the ground in an effort to build up a motive of jealousy. The authorities declared that all of these letters, some of which were in endearing terms, may be forgotten.

A road found on the road near the spot may have fallen from the "dead" car and a great deal of importance is attached to this, the only tangible evidence at hand.

Rev. Hall's flock paid its last respects today to the man who has been their spiritual leader for over ten years. Only the members of the church were admitted to the solemn rites while more than one thousand crowded the streets outside. His body was then taken to Brooklyn for burial. His wife accompanied the body.

Mrs. Mills will be buried tomorrow

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 18.—Mrs. Edward W. Hall told police she was the woman in a police car seen entering the Hall home at 2 o'clock Friday morning, a short time after the police allege, the double shooting of her husband, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, and Mrs. James Mills, choir singer and wife of the church sexton.

The bodies of the clergyman and

PROMINENT MORRIS
TOWNSHIP MAN IS
KILLED BY AUTO

John Lowry, one of Morris township's best known citizens, died in the Cottage Hospital at that place, suffering from a serious gun shot wound in the neck, the same being accidentally inflicted by a 22-calibre gun in the hands of William Rickard, also of Philipsburg.

The deceased had been to Philipsburg Saturday evening and was returning to his home at Troy in the car of G. M. Hill, of Morrisdale. The car was stopped in front of his home and Mr. Lowry got out of same and started to cross the road to his home as Mr. Hohnke drove along.

Mr. Lowry was struck and knocked down, the car passing over him. He was picked up and hurried at once to the Cottage Hospital where it was found that he had suffered serious internal injuries and passed away at the time stated despite all that could be done for him.

John Lowry was born in Cornwall, England, 63 years ago, and was among the pioneer miners in the Morris township field where he has resided the past two score years. He was an industrious, upright man, who enjoyed the unbounded respect and esteem of his neighbors.

He leaves a widow and the following children: Mrs. Ira Showers, of North Philipsburg; Mrs. George Hughes, of Philipsburg; William Lowry, of Dunlo, Pa.; Mrs. Charles Gross, of Hawk Run, and Mrs. William Orr, of Albion, Pa. One sister, Mrs. John Rogers, of Idaho Falls, Idaho, also survives him.

RIOT WHEN SHOPMEN GO
BACK IN LOUISIANA

Quinton, La., Sept. 16.—A riot broke out which assumed quite large proportions here this morning when one thousand shopmen returned their places at the local shops. A great many of the replacement men had left the place on learning of the return of strikers but about twenty-five remained. They were chased from the shops before work was resumed.

HUNTINGDON DOCTOR
WHO KILLED WOMAN
ON TRIAL TODAY

Dr. Herbert Bryson, a
Hero of World War.
Killed Common Law
Wife in Their Home.

WIFE ACCUSED HIM

Two important witnesses, men who have been unidentified, arrived here today and went into seclusion. These witnesses were said to have been former service men who were identified with Doctor Bryson in an intimate way during the war.

Huntingdon, Pa., Sept. 18.—(U. P.) Dr. Herbert Bryson, hero of the Forty Second Rainbow Division, was scheduled to go on trial for his life here today, charged with murdering Mrs. Helen Irene Haines, pretty wife of another.

Bryson is accused of shooting Mrs. Haines at their clandestine abode, maintained for nearly a year in the remote farming village of Cassville, 20 miles from the nearest railway and completely isolated from civilization by towering mountains and treacherous roads.

Mental deficiency brought on by shell shock while serving Uncle Sam's armies overseas probably, will be Bryson's defense. Scores of Bryson's "buddies" have pledged to do what they can to secure his acquittal.

The Commonwealth, represented by District Attorney Chester B. Fetterhoff and his assistants, declare they have a first-class case against the "mad" Washington D. C. physician. Mrs. Haines' ante-mortem statement in which she declared Dr. Bryson shot her without cause "and could be punished" will be introduced in the testimony.

Bryson's crime with its attendant scandal was perhaps the most sensational murder case in the history of central Pennsylvania.

About 8:45 o'clock on the evening of April 8, Dr. Bryson telephoned Byron McClain, a neighbor at Cassville, declaring "his wife" had shot herself and must be rushed to a hospital at Huntingdon.

McClain, an undertaker, made the trip to Huntingdon with the dying

YOUNG MINER VERY SERIOUSLY BURNED
IN COUNTRY MINE

William Mullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mullen, of Wrigley Addition, aged about 22 years, is a patient in the Clearfield Hospital in a critical condition, suffering from serious burns received in a powder explosion which occurred late Saturday afternoon in the Chase & Stratton mine in Lawrence township at the upper end of Ogden avenue.

The young man was employed as a miner and it is said was filling his powder can from a keg of powder, when his lamp fell into some of the explosive which had dropped upon the ground and the whole lot of powder exploded.

The victim of the explosion was very seriously burned about the face and body. He was removed to the Clearfield Hospital where it was feared for a time that his injuries would terminate fatally, but word from the hospital this morning is to the effect that he passed a very good night and his physicians now think he has a chance for recovery.

Dr. Wilfred Post of Princeton, in charge of medical work for the Near East Relief, stayed in burning Smyrna, administering relief until the flames drove him and his family from the city.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

Scarlet fever cards have been posted on the house occupied by Melvin McCure and family on the South Side, an infant being afflicted with the disease. Unless the people boil their drinking water there likely will be more cases develop.

Mrs. George Mayersky, a resident of Nantux, who was taken to the Clearfield hospital several weeks ago following a nervous breakdown, is slowly regaining her health and will be sent home in another week or so.

In conversation with a number of farmers Saturday, the Progress man learned that on many of the farms the corn crop will not be up to the usual standard of bushels per acre this year. The long drought and hot sun burned the fodder so badly that much of it will be unfit for feed. Late potatoes will be only about half a crop, and are rotting badly in the ground. The tuber is selling in this market today at from 90 cents to $1.25 per bushel.

Negotiations are pending for the transfer of the Rattman Water Company's plant. Local men are interested and have taken an option on the same until October 1st. We are informed by one who is interested that the transfer would in all likelihood be made not later than October 10th. If the new or prospective owners gain possession a string of new lines will be put in so that all residents can be supplied with water and fire protection. There are people residing within borough limits who pay a water tax, yet have no protection in case of a fire, which to the minds of many liberal-minded folk is unjust. If the new company takes over the plant well and good, for as we understand the move, many advantageous improvements will be inaugurated which the present owners, without, alleging that the income receipts will not warrant the outlay in making these improvements.

The Harvest Home and Gift services held in the Methodist church on Sabbath morning proved to be exceedingly interesting and instructive. A large congregation filled the auditorium. A good collection of fruits, vegetables and even money was made which will be sent to the Old Ladies' Home at Tyrone. This home cannot really be called a house of charity, but a pleasant and agreeable home for those who spent the best years of their lives in work in the Lord's vineyard and for the upbuilding of religion in the churches in which they were connected and held membership. Those who are financially well-to-do in this world will not miss anything by giving freely of their goods to the support of this home.

During the first month of school last September, 1921, there were enrolled in the High School 122 pupils, in the grades 738, making a total of 860. During the first week of this school year there have been enrolled in the High School 133 pupils and 753 in the grades, making a total of 886, or twenty pupils more than was enrolled during the entire first month last year. It is safe to estimate that 40 more pupils will be enrolled during the first month this year, making a total of 926, or 66 pupils more than during the first month last year. These figures tell their own story. No comment is necessary.

It should be told with emphasis that there are now 68 pupils in one room in the eighth grade and 60 pupils in one room in the seventh grade. Here are more than three rooms full, or 42 pupils per room for three rooms instead of two rooms. Seventh and eighth grades should have not over 36 pupils per room. These figures tell their own story. You will observe that there are now 753 pupils attending in 15 rooms. This makes an average enrollment of over 50 pupils per room at this time. The compulsory attendance law takes hold on the first of October and will increase the enrollment. So the reasons for more adequate school facilities in Curwensville are becoming stronger each day. If Curwensville believes in equalization of education and an equal chance for every child then Curwensville should have a new school building now. Otherwise this belief is not realized, nor can it be realized until facilities are granted by the tax payers of the borough.

Miss Louisa Karstetter, who had a foot operated on at Clearfield hospital several weeks ago, is improving and expects to commence teaching a term of school at Punxsutawney within the next week or two. She taught a most successful term in our schools last winter.

Complaint has been made to the burgess of unseemly actions on the Sabbath by a lot of youngsters on upper Ridge avenue. A demand will be made upon these desecrators of this holy day to cease annoying the residents of that section, and if they persist in same will be brought before the borough magistrate for punishment.

Many parents and pupils are grieved because of a transfer of pupils from the Patton and Locust street buildings to the South Side. This really could not be helped. The school authorities are strictly up against a hard problem and they are trying to solve it to the satisfaction of all. But they will fail in this. It will be impossible to accommodate all the pupils on this side of Anderson Creek in the Patton and Locust street buildings. In the Patton building we must have the second grade children that live on this side and up

Ridge avenue. This necessitated two rooms of second grade children in the Patton building. The first room has 60 children in it. Then the building has sixth, seventh and eighth grades. There are no more rooms. There are 60 sixth grade children living on this side of Anderson Creek and 20 in the South Side. This necessitated sending some sixth grade children to South Side. Look at the figures and tell us how it can be helped. Then, Miss Whitaker had 79 fourth grade children on this side, but no room for two rooms of fourth graders. What could be done? Send them to Miss Redden on the South Side, who had but 24. These figures should explain the situation. You can see that we are taking care of all South Side children from the seventh grade thru the High School in the Patton building. This makes it necessary that some of the children on this side go to South Side to make up for this. Many have complained to Mr. Norris and he is greatly grieved that he cannot get the patrons to see his problem. His pleasure would be to accommodate every parent and child in their wish, but no way has been found to do it. It is feared that many children will have to walk to the South Side this winter.

Curwensville High's football team lost the first game of the season to Bellwood Saturday afternoon, 25-7. The team acquitted themselves nobly and put up a snappy game, which kept the visitors busy all the time. Bellwood also put up a good, swift game and deserve much credit for their playing. Coach Black is very well pleased with the work done by his practically green squad, and is confident that with several weeks more of hard work the local aggregation will give a good account of themselves. The next game is with Tyrone on the home grounds next Saturday.

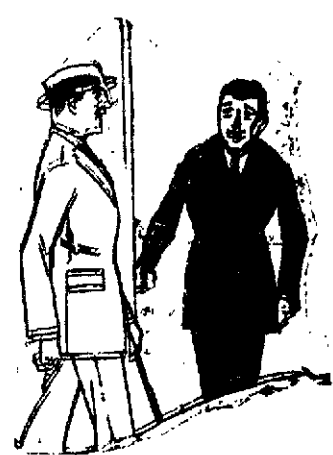

John Myers, one of the prominent citizens of the South Side, is confined to his home by illness.

Most of the mines along the ridge on the south side of the river were idle most of last week owing to the fact that cars for shipping the coal

MAD, MAD MALES!

A Few Remarks On The Subject
Of Women And Dress

By HEDA HOYT

Written for The United Press

New York, Sept. 16.—(United Press)—Men like to think that women are poor miserable mortals, who victimize themselves with cosmetic, kid curlers and uncomfortable clothing. They think weaklings whose spines must be stayed for support whose high heel feet are fit only to step from taxi taxi. The intricacy of our frilly rwear quite appals them.

Now and then some religious sect headed by a de will haul out an old kimono, fashioned of sacking, and offer it as a lution of the white woman's burd-dress. And down in every woman's heart she laughs, knowing that it is the most "as is" human in ex-nice today.

If the average man were to go to business dress in the same amount of clothing as his stenographer wears he wd be arrested for indecent expate. Exposing his Adam's apple would cause him great embarrassment.

While he worrying over the time it takes a man to apply a little powder and rouge, he overlooks the agonized hie he whiles away before the mirror scraping little bristles off his face with a sharp edged steel. He's never seen a woman rubbing her grease into her scalp to keep from getting bald either.

Have ye ever noticed a man in evening dress? How he has to hold a certain an to prevent his stiff shirt bosom fro becoming chesty? How he incessantly tugs at his cuff when he thinks no one is looking? How the little points of his collar keep playing hid and seek in his neck? He certainly is an uncomfortable looking object compared to his wife, who wears just three yards of filmy lace over a couple of chifon undergarments.

On the warmest days of Summer men still go about in stuffy sausage-suits. The disciples of the Palm Beach suits are so few that most of us think they are sleep walkers in their pajamas.

It is the woman who has thrown off the shackles of dress. Every year corsetieres are going out of business. The cloth manufacturer who used to sell seven yards of material to cover one woman, now sells three. Gown houses are failing because of the simplicity of styles. Give a woman three yards of material and she will lay it on the bed, fold it over, cut a slit for a neck, a curve for the sleeve, run up a couple of side seams and appears in a new gown that same day.

The other night at the largest vaudeville house in New York a male comedian sprang a motheaten joke about a man hooking up his wife's back. The men in the audience all chuckled. But the women knew that the hook and eye business is in a state of bankruptcy while the men who are making elastic bands are riding around in Rolls Royces.

But as long as the theory that E-came from Adams' rib is held and women will have to stand the gaff.

ODDS AND ENDS
AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

The many local friends of Mrs. Frank V. Suthers, nee Media Shaw, will be both interested and pleased to learn that Mrs. Suthers has been chosen as soloist at the Greene Memorial church, the largest Methodist church in Roanoke, Va.

The high cost of dying is certainly keeping pace or a little ahead of the high cost of living in the country districts. In the upper end of Clearfield county, if one is to judge by the schedule of prices filed in the Clearfield county court when a rural undertaker sought to collect a bill for a funeral, Suit was brought against a man for the funeral expenses of his mother, who died two or three years ago. Here is the itemized bill filed with the notice of suit:—

One oak casket	$175.00
One over box	10.00
Hearse to country	15.00
Personal services at funeral	10.00
Total	$210.00

Pecos, New Mexico, was a flourishing city nine centuries before Columbus discovered America. So say the scientists, headed by Dr. A. V. Kidder, who are excavating the buried ruins of this ancient community.

Pecos in the year 600 is pictured as a walled city, housing a cultured, philosophical people with a democratic form of government. In a good many ways the civilization was highly advanced. Some of the houses were three stories high.

Apparently the people of Pecos float Columbus to "it" by 1,000 years in "discovering" America.

Columbus really arrived late in the day, if the claims of other countries are believed.

The Chinese insist that their Buddhist explorers visited America in the year 432 and that in 464 Hsueh-shin's expedition of Chinese penetrated as far as San Blas, Mexico.

In 995 Bjarni, the Norwegian, was driven out of his course and sailed along what apparently was the eastern coast of Canada, in sight of land.

Eight years later Thorwald, the Scandinavian, is believed by some historians to have explored Long Island and the New England coast, being buried on the shore of Massachusetts bay after being killed by Indians.

Others who left evidence, well worth considering, that they visited America ahead of Columbus, were Thorfin of Iceland, Madoc of Wales and Nicolo Zeno.

Despite the condition of the roads up the mountain, the Penfield road continues to be the mecca for a large number of tourists and travelers, who seem to take delight in exploring the wild lands through which this road passes, with its occasional glimpse of a deer, pheasant or other denizen of the wild, to say nothing of the repulsive rattler which also occasionally disputes the right of way.

Kennedy Park Game Reserve, is located midway between Clearfield and Penfield, on the top of the mountain, seven miles from Clearfield, and this delightful spot is always the stopping place for all travelers. Keeper L. D. Rearick and his good wife make everybody feel at home and the former takes a great deal of pleasure in showing the visitors about the place, where he has a regular zoo, containing foxes, groundhogs, rabbits, skunks, and a fawn.

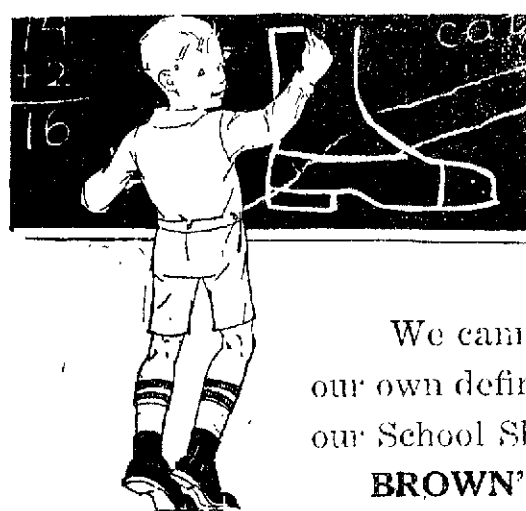

On July 11th last Mr. Rearick secured a register and asked all his guests to register upon their arrival. During the two months ending Sept. 11th, no less than 1838 names were written in the book. An examination of the book shows the visitors came from all over the United States and Canada, while one party was from far off Scotland.

In commenting on his visitors Rearick said: "They all say the scenery is grand; the water pure; the air fine; the zoo wonderful, but the roads—!" With which latter observation all who travel the road up the mountain will agree.

Dangerous Method.

"What are your usual modes of punishment?" was among the questions submitted to a teacher in a rural district in Ohio. Her answer was, "I try moral suasion first, and if that does not work I use capital punishment. As it was a neighborhood where moral suasion had not been a success, and the children were scarce, the committee took no risks.

woman. The doctor sat beside the woman in the hearse and sought to make the trip over the mountain roads as comfortable for her as possible.

At the hospital, Dr. Bryson repeated to attach the story that the woman shot herself. Mrs. Haines, however, realizing she was dying, summoned the district attorney and in the presence of witnesses told how she and Dr. Bryson had quarrelled. She related how he had pursued her to the second floor, how he broke down the door of the room into which she fled, and then fired several shots at her. The woman died a few hours after making this statement.

On the afternoon of April 9, Bruce Haines, of Washington, D. C. saw newspaper dispatches telling of the slaying of "Mrs. Bryson." Haines declared the slain woman was his wife and that she met Bryson while employed in a government bureau in Washington. Haines said the woman deserted him.

The murder was a terrific shock to Bryson's aged mother, who believed her son to be practicing medicine in New York State. She was entirely ignorant of her son's clandestine relations with Mrs. Haines in Cassville, but nevertheless will assist in his defense, it was said.

HOW TO KEEP YOUR BABY WELL

A Wey Talk To Mothers Issued Through The Babies' Prophylactic Clinic, Henry Phipps Institution 7th and Lombard Streets.

BABY'S PLAY AND TOYS

Your baby will not be harmed by a few objects' play now and then. A young, delicate or nervous baby needs st and quiet. But even for a strong baby, much play is too exciting.

Of course you like to hear your baby laugh and crow, but often the things you do to try to make him laugh such as tickling him or tossing him about, only make him cross and fitable.

Don't kiss your baby on the mouth, and don't let other people kiss him on the mouth.

Don't rock him or jump him up and down or shake his crib. He will only get into the habit of needing the attentions.

Of course you need not leave him alone entirely. Your baby needs "mothering" and it will do no harm to take him up once in while and hold him quietly in your arms in different positions so that he does not become too tired.

As he gets older teach your child to sit on the floor or in hispen or crib while he is awake, so that you do not overtax your strength in taking care of him.

Toys.

Your baby's toys must be such that they can be washed; because baby lies to put everything in his mouth. His toys must have no sharp corners or points.

Don't give him painted and hairy and woolly toys, or anything small enough to swallow, or toys with loose parts.

Rubber and celluloid toys are excellent, especially these that float. But watch your baby so that he does not bite them to pieces.

Do not let him have too many toys at one time. A few things will satisfy him and simple toys will usually amuse him just as easily as the more expensive kind. See how a string of spoons, a spoon or an empty talcum powder can will delight him.

Be sure to wash all of his toys often and, when possible, boil them to keep them nice and clean.

Prefer Ice Packs.

Physicians today are making use of ice-packs in the treatment of pneumonia and other pulmonary maladies, whereas 25 years ago hot applications were prescribed exclusively.

The old style asylum with its little denizens, clothed and fed in monotonous similarity and cared for in doses, without the individual attention each child needs, is a relic of the discard, as in congruous in this age as the old style mad house, according to Dr. John M. Baldy, Commissioner of Public Welfare.

The new policy of the state department of Public Welfare, said Dr. Ellen C. Potter, chief of the Children's Bureau of Public Welfare Department, is toward the placing of children "in the home."

Caring for orphans by securing individual private homes for them is infinitely better for the child, as well as cheaper, and more efficient from the point of view of the state, according to Dr. Potter. This "placement method" is now being used in but one county in the state, Bradford. The "placement officer," a capable woman, attends to the finding proper homes for the children and then to supervising the placements, to make sure that the child is properly cared for. In some cases the family of adoption takes over the entire expense of caring for the child and in others the authorities pay in part or the whole for the child's upkeep.

A CONSTRUCTIVE ARMY

The other day Company A, of the First Battalion, 102nd Engineers, built a bridge across the Annesville Creek, near Peekskill, N. Y., at a point several hundred feet wide, in 52 minutes. Company D built a similar bridge in 54 minutes, and other companies performed the feat in a little over an hour.

The army is trained to destroy, except for the Engineers, whose work is constructive. Even their work, in time of war, is destined to be destroyed, to a large degree. The Engineers have done a great deal in a systematic way to develop the science of engineering. The army has accomplished a great deal more in training large numbers of men to a high degree of efficiency in a most worth while profession. It is an achievement for a group of men to build a practical bridge several hundred feet long in less than an hour, or quickly and efficiently to build a good road, or do any of the thousand other things that the Engineers are trained to do, and to do well.

It is a pity that the work of this department of the army should be minimized. Destroying lives and property is going out of date, and with it will go those huge instruments of destruction, the armies and navies of the world. But the constructive part of them will be left. Why not use the organization and tremendous energy and resources at the disposal of the government to train men how to live, and not to destroy lives?

THE SQUARE DEAL COUNTS

Dr. Wegener, a celebrated German geologist, tells the British Association that the American continent is moving and widening the distance between itself and Europe. Strange action for a continent, which ought, above all things, to be stable and to stand hatched. And yet geology tells that the far-off history of this old world witnessed many things almost as strange. Snail shells on the tops of mountains prove that where the mountains are was once the bottom of the sea. The coal mines of Pennsylvania are easier to work because long ago the old earth humped its back and made the Appalachian ridge. So maybe the German savant is right.

But in effect the truth of this doesn't amount to much to anyone now alive. Of much greater importance is the relation of the two continents in the affairs of men. The fact that America has grown rich while Europe has become nearly bankrupt is of more consequence. The fact that the people who are proud of a much older civilization and culture than ours owe us upwards of $11,000,000,000 is more likely to cause a dangerous split than any movement of the continent.

There ought to be wisdom enough among these enlightened peoples to begin now to build a bridge. The book people say there is a big demand for transactions. That will help tear down the barriers of language.

The people on either side of the Atlantic will get much farther seeking to give each other the square deal than they will by stewing over a continental drift.

What Education Has Done For The United States

By Dr. John M. Thomas, President of the Pennsylvania State College

DR. JOHN M. THOMAS
President of the Pennsylvania State College

Three hundred years ago this present year the first attempt to set up a public school system in this country met with a temporary reversal. The Indian War of 1622 delayed for a time the educational plan of the little Virginia colony. But it was not long before the rude beginnings of American education had definitely established themselves upon these shores. It was not long before Boston took action to the end that near Dr. Philipine Permort shall be entrusted to become school master for teaching and nurturing children with us," and it was only a year later that Harvard College was established.

Down through the three centuries that separate that time from this, our educational system has grown until in its states we now have a system of education that, for diversity of curriculum and democracy of spirit, is surpassed in all the world. We have not yet reached a stage where we dare to say that America is the center of the educational world. With the old centers of learning still gathering to graduate students of the cultural subjects, it would be presumptuous of our part to make such a claim.

Yet we have seen some indication that the medical world begins to look not so much to Paris and Vienna and London for its leadership as to America. We have seen fine art objects brought to us from other shores, and have all else we have seen the vocational school attaining its highest development in this country.

Better Living Standard

Doubtless the greatest work of the people of the United States has been a general elevation of the standard of living to a point higher than that reached by the people of any other country. Those who have reached the topmost pinnacle of usefulness in this country have climbed to a position no less high than their brothers in fame throughout the world. But it is not by the success or fame of the few that American education is to be measured, but rather by the high plane upon which the great unknown average man and woman stand.

American education and American democracy, which has been its greatest product, have meant the betterment of the standards of the home and of business. They have meant that millions of homes have lived in greater appreciation of the conditions and joys of life surrounding them. They have meant that the young women who were to be the wives of the future, or the teachers of youth, have been trained in the cultivation of better living. No corner of the American home has been left untouched by American education. Whether in the homely arts of plain cooking or in the cultivation of the fine arts, the school has taken an effective place.

And so, too, has the middle-class American business. The age of barbarism has long since passed, and the time has come when the business man is realizing more and more that it is only devotion to principle and sound economics that has brought American industry and banking to their present positions of security. He is coming to realize that only an education with some understanding of the laws of economics can guard the safety of American practice in government and business. And so, at the present time, for instance, the American people, through the education that represents them, are making intelligent decisions of inflation of currency, or of the war if it will be only because of the education that has instilled in us some knowledge of the working of economic laws and some ability to prophesy on the basis of history.

Education in Pennsylvania So much has education done for the United States, specifically, what has it done for Pennsylvania?

In agriculture alone the service of education has been great. One needs no extensive statistics to note the better education of the farmer of today as compared with the farmer of a half century ago. This is for his laboratory the vast field under his cultivation, he is developing a new science in the chemistry of the soil and of fertilizers, in bacteriology, in plant pathology, and in the beginning of accurate accounts.

Yet there are statistics to tell of the growing interest of our farmers in scientific agriculture. Out of 100 young farm managers or owners, 97 are graduates of the Pennsylvania State College, and 97 are graduates of the state, 97 were found to have attended high school, the majority of them having taken courses in vocational schools.

And thus through high school which give one half of their time to instruction in agriculture or home economics during the first two years of the pupil's course and as much more optionally during the next two years, Pennsylvania, which ranks seventh in agriculture among the states, is laying a foundation in farming that will keep her in the forefront among the agricultural districts of the world.

Nor is it alone among the vocational high schools that training for particular callings is being given. Through the courses in agriculture, mining, engineering, natural science, and home economics, given by the Pennsylvania State College, vocational education of more advanced grade and even of graduate grade is open to students of this state.

Is It Justified?

And if this public education system, if the Pennsylvania State College, which is at the apex of the system, have succeeded in lessening disease among notations, in making living safer, in solving greater problems of engineering, and in making life more livable, that system is justified. It is with confidence in what its graduates have been able to do and in the increased service that it desires to give, that the Pennsylvania State College now seeks to become a University in name as well as in fact, looking toward the enrollment of 10,000 students. It is to serve industry of every sort to greater advantage that the College seeks to provide for expansion to a size more nearly commensurate with the demands now made upon it.

Mrs. Hal told them, the detectives said, that, becoming worried over the failure of her husband to return home, she had gone to his church to see if he had been detained there. She said she had been accompanied by William Steven, her brother.

Ratify All Treaties Is SEPTEMBER TERM OF CRIMINAL COURT OPENED HERE TODAY

Belief Of Capital But Process Is Slow

Washington, Sept. 18. (United Press) — While nearly ten months have passed since the opening of the Washington Arms Conference and the signing of the many treaties signed by the United States, the process of ratification by all parties, and the subsequent ratification by all governments involved, has been a slow process.

Ordered by one of the frankest and most experienced in diplomatic circles, when Secretary of State Hughes called the purpose of the conference was to bring about a general agreement on the part of all governments involved in preparing treaties affecting the world.

One of these treaties is the five-year limitation treaty, signed by the United States, Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy. The second is the four-power Pacific treaty, signed by the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan. The third of the most important of the treaties is the nine-power Far East treaty, signed by the United States, Great Britain, France, Japan, Italy, Belgium, Portugal, the Netherlands, and China.

The only treaty negotiated at the conference which has been ratified by both governments effected is the so-called Shanghai treaty, signed by Japan and China, whereby Japan agreed to return to China the territory occupied at one time by Germany and later captured from the Imperial German government by the Japanese.

Ratified Treaties. Each of the first two of the treaties had been ratified by three of the signers, the United States, Great Britain, and Japan having notified the other powers of their acceptance of the pact. Neither France nor Italy have acted upon the pact.

While none of the three powers who have already ratified the agreements have made any amendments or reservations, and it is not thought that France will make any changes, Italy has withheld final action until France has made her definite decision.

Owing to the geographical position of the two countries, the government at Rome feels it necessary to the welfare of the country that any reservations or amendments made by France must be claimed by the government. It is thought in some circles here that the three great powers already agreeing to the treaty will carry them out regardless of the action of France.

Italy, but officials emphatically stated that the acceptance of the pact by both the Latin countries is greatly desired.

The question of German reparations has been greatly absorbed the interest of France for some months past, and the action of the government has not been turned upon the subject. The opinion has been expressed here that regardless of the action of the present powers, the question of reparations will be unwilling to pay a sum equal to the cost of the war.

The September term of criminal court opened this morning with Judge Singleton Bell on the bench and about the largest number of cases listed for trial in the history of the county.

The morning session was largely devoted to the hearing of motions and petitions, no case being called for trial before the noon recess.

Jury duty does not appear to be the most pleasant occupation just about this time. Before taking up the list, Judge Bell stated that no juror could be excused from jury duty at this time, but any juror who desired to be excused would please advance to Clerk Raiston's desk, give the clerk his name and reason for asking to be excused, then if he found it possible later to release any person from jury duty he would be in position to pass upon the matter intelligently and allow those with the most pressing necessity to be excused. One fifth of the entire panel for the week stepped forward and asked to be excused.

Trinity Church Events. Yesterday the Bible School, with its steady increase in attendance listened to an address by Miss Laura Gilliland. Many strangers were in the various services of the day. Two infants were baptized. Holy Communion was held both morning and evening with a sermon at night on "The Ethics of the Cross," also at Mount Zion, with a sermon on Christ the High Priest.

The great group gathering has left a deep impression. The conference session was a stirring one. For the young people's rally, under E. C. Keeney, Sunday Schools and leagues attended. Curwensville had the record with 49, then came Clearfield circuit with 39. The splendid address of Mr. Frank Rines, from the Washington Area office, with the screen slides, will be long discussed.

This week's meeting, Wednesday afternoon, Woman's Home Missionary Society, evening, mid week congregational meeting, Friday, 4 p. m. Junior League. Next Sunday, Rally Day 666.

The Washington agreements. The third of the important treaties has been ratified by four of the nine powers whose signatures were attached at the close of the Washington conference, the United States, Great Britain, Japan and China. Ratification by the other powers of China is expected at any time, it was learned.

Influence of the Pacific pact has already been felt. It is thought here, ugly matters relating to possible trouble between the United States and Japan, which were heard consistently before the conference, have ceased and a new feeling of understanding has been which will tend to preserve the peace between the two nations. This has been greatly aided by the positive declaration of the American government, which it is now alleged, was one of the present problems of the world.

REV. E. V. BROW IS SELECTED TO PILOT LOCAL DEMOCRATS

The local Democratic committee-men have started their fall campaign by choosing E. V. Brown as borough chairman. This action was taken at a meeting last week of the committee chairman from the different wards and Chairman Brown has already started to work to map a campaign.

The borough organization will be completed by the election of a secretary and other officers at a meeting to be held at county headquarters on Locust street tomorrow evening.

At Tuesday evening's meeting, a borough chairman for the town's organization, together with ward precinct chairmen for all the precincts of the different wards will so be named.

Borough Chairman Brown proposes to wage a vigorous campaign toward getting the Democratic vote out in the borough, something he says has been very much neglected the past few years. He feels that inasmuch as Clearfield Democrats have been honored by having one of their number, Fred B. Kerr, selected as the nominee for United States Senator; another, Hon. J. Frank Snyder, as nominee for Congress, and a third, William I. Betts, for State Senator, they should make a special effort to rally to their support and all get out to the polls on election day.

Near the Dividing Line. Robert was anxious to attend kindergarten with Billy, but he was not quite four years old. One day he went as a visitor, and before leaving he slipped up to the teacher and said: "Please, can't I come to your school? I'm just on the edge of four."

DUBOIS SHOPMEN WENT TO WORK THIS MORNING

After an illness that has continued since July 1st, at which time a strike was declared nationally on practically all of the railroad of the country on the part of the shopmen, the men employed by the B. R. & P. railroad will return to work this morning, an agreement having been reached on Saturday afternoon. As a matter of fact some of the employees of the road went to work yesterday at the local shops, and beginning this morning it is expected that there will be large accessions to the number employed, and that within a short time the shops will be running at full speed.

The agreement was reached following a conference held Saturday at the offices of Superintendent of Motive Power E. V. Williams, and was participated in by officials of the B. R. & P. officers of the B. R. & P. Federation, including General Chairman John McNeil, Jr., Secretary Leonard Singer, William J. Smith, of the Machinists; George Rick of the Sheet Metal Workers; Thos. J. Whelan, of the Car Builders; John Flanagan, of the Finemen and Others; and Ralph Tuxal, of the Electricians. PRESIDENT Phil W.

HARDING EXPECTED TO VETO SOLDIER BONUS MEASURE

Washington, Sept. 18.—Information that President Harding has made up his mind definitely to veto the "bonus" bill reached Senate leader from some of his close advisers. They said his message of disapproval would be sent to the House Tuesday.

After receiving this word, the matter of fact some of the employees of the road went to work yesterday at the local shops, and beginning this morning it is expected that there will be large accessions to the number employed, and that within a short time the shops will be running at full speed.

The measure was understood, however, to be regarded by some friends of the President as too narrow, and they expected Mr. Harding to call several senators to the White House before Tuesday for a discussion of the situation.

With many senators absent from Washington, it was asserted by some that it was difficult to get a Senate without of this time.

When, after two hours' searching, no word had come from the interior of the mine, the patience of the hundreds of waiters outside was about exhausted, but experienced miners consoled the worried men, women and children who have kept vigil for more than three weeks, by telling them that progress within the mine would be slow. There are innumerable small openings to be gone thru, many ladders to be descended and all manner of obstructions to be overcome. They said it would be necessary to proceed with caution every foot of the way as it is not known what physical change has taken place in the mine and where pockets of gas may have formed. There is no information to the effect that the searchers have found additional caverns or any other impediments that will prevent a rescue being made.

FIND AIR IS GOOD

Hope reigned in the breasts of hundreds of relatives and friends of the entombed miners of the Argonaut Mine in California this morning when shortly after seven o'clock rescue crews broke through into the darkness of the death trap.

Fresh men making up an exploration and searching party immediately squeezed their way through the narrow aperture and began their search for the forty-seven miners who have been entombed for twenty-one days.

The Argonaut mine is one of extensive development and it will require some time to find the men whether they be dead or alive but all indications point to luck being in their favor. A strong air current was

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—American Federation of Labor officials are preparing today to assist Oscar E. Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 18.—The Right Reverend Bishop Courtland Whitehead, prominent Episcopal churchman and veteran of the Civil War, died here early today. Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead stopped off here to break a trip from an eastern vacation point. The cause of death was heart disease, from which the venerable preacher had suffered for some time. Bishop Whitehead was born October 30, 1842.

Dr. Wilfred Post of Princeton, in charge of medical work for the Near East Relief, stayed in burning Smyrna, administering relief until the flames drove him and his family from the city.

N. Y. C. TO RESUME
SHOPMEN PARLEY
AFTER BREAKDOWN

Chicago, Sept. 17.—With the shopmen's peace plan threatened by outbreaks due apparently to misunderstandings and with the New York Central and the Southern railway announcing their failure to reach agreements with the strikers, roads not participating in the Baltimore negotiations reported a rapid return to normal operation of their shops tonight.

In the case of the New York Central, a statement was issued by the road expressing willingness to fulfill the memorandum of agreement reached at Baltimore between D. M. Jewell, head of the strikers, and representatives of certain of the carriers, but it was asserted that representatives of the shopmen, who had had 32,951 men at work, compared with a normal force of 35,192.

Jewell departed early tonight for New York, where he said he would enter into conferences with the New York Central officials. Tuesday in the expectation of reaching a speedy agreement under the terms of the Baltimore plan. At noon headquarters it was said that only trivial differences prevented the signing of a separate peace with that road today. These differences, it was said, would be cleared away by submitting them to the arbitration board provided for in the Baltimore plan.

According to union leaders, the men on the following roads will return to work tomorrow: The Chicago & North Western, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Seaboard Air Line, and the Green Bay & Western.

U. S. BLIMP, C-2, REACHES
SAN ANTONIO

San Antonio, Sept. 17.—Completing the longest leg of its four-month flight and since fully combating the roughest weather encountered since leaving Langley, field September 14th, the army blimp C-2 landed at Brooks field here this afternoon, having covered 829 miles from St. Louis in 16 hours and 29 minutes.

An error of judgment on the part used for the flight in respect to one of the years of the Ozark mountains came near causing disaster last night, according to Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2. The peak was higher than believed and the C-2, sweeping through it, was nearly struck. A sharp turn at the last moment saved it from disaster.

FRANCE MOVES TO
ASSAULT ON TURK

Paris, Sept. 18.—France moved today to prevent Great Britain from carrying out her threatened campaign against Mustapha Kemal, victorious Turkish leader who has announced his intention of invading Constantinople and the Dardanelles. It is authoritatively stated that the French Government has dispatched a messenger to Kemal also with a request to forego his program in the interest of world peace.

Ottawa, Canada, Sept. 18.—The Canadian Cabinet met this morning at nine o'clock to consider the suggestion of the London Government that the Dominion join in the campaign to throw back the Turkish leader, Mustapha Kemal.

Constantinople, Sept. 18.—Great Britain has started movements of troops to reinforce the small garrison of 10,500 troops here who will soon be added against 100,000 victory-minded Turks. Transports are arriving with British men, guns and ammunition. It is reported that over a thousand Gordon Highlanders have disembarked from Gibraltar and as many more from the Island of Malta.

Berlin, Sept. 18.—Mustapha Kemal will not sanction a Near East peace conference unless the Soviet Government is given recognition. A Soviet official at the Berlin seat of government has received a message to this effect from Kemal. Russia wants representation at the proposed Venice conference and Kemal is committed to settling it for her.

SWOOP PRODUCE
PROOF IN ANSWER
TO CRITICISMS

Deputy Attorney General William I. Swoope does not propose to let his political enemies put any holes in his political armor if he can help it, and while he says they can get all the glory they wish without calling him names, he will require them to stick to facts in the more important matters to be placed before the voters. Over at Center Hall last week Mr. Swoope let a few rats out of the bag concerning the manner in which Mr. McGowan and others received their nomination and concerning these remarks, Mr. Swoope issued the following statement this morning:

How the Democratic Ticket

Was Nominated
"One of the Democratic papers states that Mr. Swoope in his speech at Center Hall misrepresented the method by which the Democratic ticket was nominated. The facts, as published in the 'Harrisburg Patriot', were that a preliminary conference was held by the Democratic State chairman in Harrisburg, at which a few, certainly not more than twelve, of the Democratic leaders were present. This conference actually selected the Democratic State candidates and it was published in the papers that their names had been so agreed upon. The State Chairman then called a conference of seventy-two, the one of which the Democratic papers are possessed of any knowledge, and this conference was composed of thirty-six men and thirty-six women, and ratified the action of the preliminary conference; but this second conference was a mere form, and did nothing except what they were told to do. All these facts were published in the daily press at the time."

W. C. Miller, Pa., is attending court at Braddock, where he is involved in an important equity suit from Pennsylvania.

Mrs. D. Connolly is spending a couple of days with her daughter, Mrs. T. A. Marshall at Snow Shoe.

Grave fear is felt by Americans who have contributed thousands to the support of the American college at Constantinople for the safety of the college and its staff and students. PHILIPSBURG MAN
SHOT BY GUN THAT
"WASN'T LOADED"

Zinton Bowers, aged 28, one of the proprietors of a Philipsburg hotel room, is a patient in the Cottage Hospital at that place, suffering from a serious gun shot wound in the neck, the same being accidentally inflicted by a 22-calibre gun in the hands of William Rickard, also of Philipsburg.

Bowers and Rickard visited the plant of the Good Service Veneering Company on Second street, Philipsburg, this morning. The workmen about the place had been bothered by rats and had been using a 22-calibre rifle to shoot the rodents with. When Rickard came in he picked up the gun, a repeater, which had had the shell removed from the barrel. He put the gun to his shoulder, thinking it unloaded from his superficial glance and proceeded to work the slide. When he threw forward the slide a cartridge was forced from the magazine into the barrel and not knowing he had loaded it, Rickard pointed the gun at Bowers and pulled the trigger. With the report of the gun Bowers staggered and fell, with blood spurting from a wound on either side of his throat, as the bullet had entered the left side of the neck and passed out the right side.

Bowers was quickly removed to the hospital, where his injuries were attended to and where it was found the bullet had fortunately just missed both the jugular vein and wind pipe and he has a fighting chance to recover.

DETECTIVES MINGLE

GET MURDER CLUES

Rev. Edw'd Hall Buried
Today. Mrs. Miller To

No One To Murderer.

BODIES CARRIED

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 18.—Detectives mingled with the crowd which sat about the doors of the Rev. Edward Hall, rector of the fashionable Episcopal church here and Mrs. Jas. Miller, wife of the church sexton, both of whom were found dead after having been shot, beaten and stabbed, in an effort to detect a head that will give them a clue.

Investigation has revealed that the double murder likely took place in New Brunswick after which the bodies were placed in a car and carried to the lonesome grave on an abandoned farm. The slayers had carefully scattered some small coins, letters and personal effects about the ground in an effort to build up a motive of jealousy. The authorities declared that all of these letters, some of which were in endearing terms, may be forgotten.

A rod found on the road near the spot may have fallen from the "dead" car and a great deal of importance is attached to this, the only tangible evidence at hand.

Rev. Hall's flock paid its last respects today to the man who has been their spiritual leader for over ten years. Only the members of the church were admitted to the solemn rites while more than one thousand crowded the streets outside. His body was then taken to Brooklyn for burial. His wife accompanied the body.

Mrs. Mills will be buried tomorrow.

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 18.—Mrs. Edward W. Hall told police she was the woman in a police car seen entering the Hall home at 2 o'clock Friday morning, a short time after the police allege, the double shooting of her husband, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, and Mrs. James Mills, choir singer and wife of the church sexton.

PROMINENT MORRIS
TOWNSHIP MAN IS
KILLED BY AUTO

John Lowry, one of Morris township's best known citizens, died in the Cottage Hospital at this place, after being injured at 9 o'clock Sunday morning when he was run over by a car driven by Louis Morris, resident of Morris township.

The deceased had been to Philipsburg Saturday evening and was returning to his home at Troy in the car of G. M. Hill, of Morrisdale. The car was stopped in front of his home and Mr. Lowry got out of same and started to cross the road to his home as Mr. Hohnke drove along.

Mr. Lowry was struck and knocked down, the car passing over him. He was picked up and hurried at once to the Cottage Hospital where it was found that he had suffered serious internal injuries and passed away at the time stated despite all that could be done for him.

John Lowry was born in Cornwall, England, 63 years ago, and was among the pioneer miners in the Morris township field where he has resided the past two score years. He was an industrious, upright man, who enjoyed the unbounded respect and esteem of his neighbors.

He leaves a widow and the following children: Mrs. Ira Showers, of North Philipsburg; Mrs. George Hughes, of Philipsburg; William Lowry, of Dunlo, Pa.; Mrs. Charles Gross, of Hawk Run, and Mrs. William Orr, of Albion, Pa. One sister, Mrs. John Rogers, of Idaho Falls, Idaho, also survives him.

RIOT WHEN SHOPMEN GO BACK IN LOUISIANA

Quinton, La., Sept. 16.—A riot broke out which assumed quite large proportions here this morning when one thousand shopmen returned their places at the local shops. A great many of the replacement men had left the place on learning of the return of strikers but about twenty-five remained. They were chased from the shops before work was resumed.

HUNTINGDON DOCTOR
WHO KILLED WOMAN
ON TRIAL TODAY

Dr. Herbert Bryson, a Hero of World War, Killed Common Law Wife in Their Home.

WIFE ACCUSED HIM

Two important witnesses, men who have been unidentified, arrived here today and went into seclusion. These witnesses were said to have been former service men who were identified with Doctor Bryson in an intimate way during the war.

Huntingdon, Pa., Sept. 18.—(U. P.) Dr. Herbert Bryson, hero of the Forty Second Rainbow Division, was scheduled to go on trial for his life here today, charged with murdering Mrs. Helen Irene Haines, pretty wife of another.

Bryson is accused of shooting Mrs. Haines at their clandestine abode, maintained for nearly a year in the remote farming village of Cassville, 20 miles from the nearest railway and completely isolated from civilization by towering mountains and treacherous roads.

Mental deficiency brought on by shell shock while serving Uncle Sam's armies overseas probably, will be Bryson's defense. Scores of Bryson's "buddies" have pledged to do what they can to secure his acquittal.

The Commonwealth, represented by District Attorney Chester B. Fetterhoff and his assistants, declare they have a first-class case against the former Washington D. C. physician. Mrs. Haines' ante-mortem statement in which she declared Dr. Bryson shot her without cause "and could be punished" will be introduced in the testimony.

Bryson's crime with its attendant scandal was perhaps the most sensational murder case in the history of central Pennsylvania.

About 8:45 o'clock on the evening of April 8, Dr. Bryson telephoned Byron McClain, a neighbor at Cassville, declaring "his wife" had shot herself and must be rushed to a hospital at Huntingdon.

McClain, an undertaker, made the trip to Huntingdon with the dying

YOUNG MINER VERY SERIOUSLY BURNED
IN COUNTRY MINE

William Mullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mullen, of Wrigley Addition, aged about 22 years, is a patient in the Clearfield Hospital in a critical condition, suffering from serious burns received in a powder explosion which occurred late Saturday afternoon in the Chase & Bratton mine in Lawrence township at the upper end of Ogden avenue.

The young man was employed as a miner and it is said was filling his powder can from a keg of powder, when his lamp fell into some of the explosive which had dropped upon the ground and the whole lot of powder exploded.

The victim of the explosion was very seriously burned about the face and body. He was removed to the Clearfield Hospital where it was feared for a time that his injuries would terminate fatally, but word from the hospital this morning is to the effect that he passed a very good night and his physicians now think he has a chance for recovery.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

Scarlet fever cards have been posted on the house occupied by Melvin McCure and family on the South Side, an infant being afflicted with the disease. Unless the people boil their drinking water there likely will be more cases develop.

Mrs. George Mayersky, a resident of Nantux, who was taken to the Clearfield hospital several weeks ago following a nervous breakdown, is slowly regaining her health and will be sent home in another week or so.

In conversation with a number of farmers Saturday, the Progress man learned that on many of the farms the corn crop will not be up to the usual standard of bushels per acre this year. The long drought and hot sun burned the fodder so badly that much of it will be unfit for feed. Late potatoes will be only about half a crop, and are rotting badly in the ground. The tuber is selling in this market today at from 90 cents to $1.25 per bushel.

Negotiations are pending for the transfer of the Rattman Water Company's plant. Local men are interested and have taken an option on the same until October 1st. We are informed by one who is interested that the transfer would in all likelihood be made not later than October 10th. If the new or prospective owners gain possession a string of new lines will be put in so that all residents can be supplied with water and fire protection. There are people residing within borough limits who pay a water tax, yet have no protection in case of a fire, which to the minds of many liberal-minded folk is unjust. If the new company takes over the plant well and good, for as we understand the move, many advantageous improvements will be inaugurated which the present owners, without, alleging that the income receipts will not warrant the outlay in making these improvements.

The Harvest Home and Gift services held in the Methodist church on Sabbath morning proved to be exceedingly interesting and instructive. A large congregation filled the auditorium. A good collection of fruits, vegetables and even money was made which will be sent to the Old Ladies' Home at Tyrone. This home cannot really be called a house of charity, but a pleasant and agreeable home for those who spent the best years of their lives in work in the Lord's vineyard and for the upbuilding of religion in the churches in which they were connected and held membership. Those who are financially well-to-do in this world will not miss anything by giving freely of their goods to the support of this home.

During the first month of school last September, 1921, there were enrolled in the High School 122 pupils, in the grades 738, making a total of 860. During the first week of this school year there have been enrolled in the High School 133 pupils and 753 in the grades, making a total of 886, or twenty pupils more than was enrolled during the entire first month last year. It is safe to estimate that 40 more pupils will be enrolled during the first month this year, making a total of 926, or 66 pupils more than during the first month last year. These figures tell their own story. No comment is necessary.

It should be told with emphasis that there are now 68 pupils in one room in the eighth grade and 60 pupils in one room in the seventh grade. Here are more than three rooms full, or 42 pupils per room for three rooms instead of two rooms. Seventh and eighth grades should have not over 36 pupils per room. These figures tell their own story. You will observe that there are now 753 pupils attending in 15 rooms. This makes an average enrollment of over 50 pupils per room at this time. The compulsory attendance law takes hold on the first of October and will increase the enrollment. So the reasons for more adequate school facilities in Curwensville are becoming stronger each day. If Curwensville believes in equalization of education and an equal chance for every child then Curwensville should have a new school building now. Otherwise this belief is not realized, nor can it be realized until facilities are granted by the tax payers of the borough.

Miss Louisa Karstetter, who had a foot operated on at Clearfield hospital several weeks ago, is improving and expects to commence teaching a term of school at Punxsutawney within the next week or two. She taught a most successful term in our schools last winter.

Complaint has been made to the burgess of unseemly actions on the Sabbath by a lot of youngsters on upper Ridge avenue. A demand will be made upon these desecrators of this holy day to cease annoying the residents of that section, and if they persist in same will be brought before the borough magistrate for punishment.

Many parents and pupils are grieved because of a transfer of pupils from the Patton and Locust street buildings to the South Side. This really could not be helped. The school authorities are strictly up against a hard problem and they are trying to solve it to the satisfaction of all. But they will fail in this. It will be impossible to accommodate all the pupils on this side of Anderson Creek in the Patton and Locust street buildings. In the Patton building we must have the second grade children that live on this side and up

Ridge avenue. This necessitated two rooms of second grade children in the Patton building. The first room has 60 children in it. Then the building has sixth, seventh and eighth grades. There are no more rooms. There are 60 sixth grade children living on this side of Anderson Creek and 20 in the South Side. This necessitated sending some sixth grade children to South Side. Look at the figures and tell us how it can be helped. Then, Miss Whitaker had 79 fourth grade children on this side, but no room for two rooms of fourth graders. What could be done? Send them to Miss Redden on the South Side, who had but 24. These figures should explain the situation. You can see that we are taking care of all South Side children from the seventh grade thru the High School in the Patton building. This makes it necessary that some of the children on this side go to South Side to make up for this. Many have complained to Mr. Norris and he is greatly grieved that he cannot get the patrons to see his problem. His pleasure would be to accommodate every parent and child in their wish, but no way has been found to do it. It is feared that many children will have to walk to the South Side this winter.

The funeral of Mrs. Creighton Clark was held from her home yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. A. N. Salvie, pastor of the Christian church officiated. Interment in Oak Hill cemetery.

Curwensville High's football team lost the first game of the season to Bellwood Saturday afternoon, 25-7. The team acquitted themselves nobly and put up a snappy game, which kept the visitors busy all the time. Bellwood also put up a good, swift game and deserve much credit for their playing. Coach Black is very well pleased with the work done by his practically green squad, and is confident that with several weeks more of hard work the local aggregation will give a good account of themselves. The next game is with Tyrone on the home grounds next Saturday.

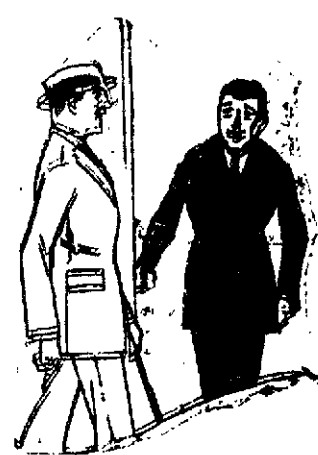

John Myers, one of the prominent citizens of the South Side, is confined to his home by illness.

Most of the mines along the ridge on the south side of the river were idle most of last week owing to the fact that cars for shipping the coal were unavailable. Some of the mines are paying as much as $1.50 per ton for machine mining, and $7.50 per day for outside labor.

Chris Garlock, who is working at Greenville, Mercer county, is at his South Side home for a short visit.

MAD, MAD MALES!

A Few Remarks On The Subject Of Women And Dress

By HEDA HOYT

Written for The United Press

New York, Sept. 16.—(United Press)—Men like to think that women are poor miserable mortals, who victimize themselves with cosmetic, kid curlers and uncomfortable clothing. They think weaklings whose spines must be stayed for support whose high heel feet are fit only to step from taxi taxi. The intricacy of our frilly rwear quite appals them.

Now and then some religious sect headed by a de will haul out an old kimono, fashioned of sacking, and offer it as a lution of the white woman's burd-dress. And down in every woman's heart she laughs, knowing that it is the most "as is" human in ex-nice today.

If the average man were to go to business dress in the same amount of clothing as his stenographer wears he wd be arrested for indecent expate. Exposing his Adam's apple would cause him great embarrassment.

While he worrying over the time it takes a man to apply a little powder and rouge, he overlooks the agonized hies he whiles away before the mirror scraping little bristles off his face with a sharp edged steel. He's never seen a woman rubbing her grease into her scalp to keep from getting bald either.

Have ye ever noticed a man in evening dress? How he has to hold a certain an to prevent his stiff shirt bosom from becoming chesty? How he incessantly tugs at his cuffs when he thinks no one is looking? How the little points of his collar keep playing hid and seek in his neck? He certainly is an uncomfortable looking object compared to his wife, who wears just three yards of flimsy lace over a couple of chifon undergarments.

On the warmest days of Summer men still go about in stuffy sausage-suits. The disciples of the Palm Beach suits are so few that most of us think they are sleep walkers in their pajamas.

It is the woman who has thrown off the shackles of dress. Every year corsetieres are going out of business. The cloth manufacturer who used to sell seven yards of material to cover one woman, now sells three. Gown houses are failing because of the simplicity of styles. Give a woman three yards of material and she will lay it on the bed, fold it over, cut a slit for a neck, a curve for the sleeve, run up a couple of side seams and appears in a new gown that same day.

The other night at the largest vaudeville house in New York a male comedian sprang a motheaten joke about a man hooking up his wife's back. The men in the audience all chuckled. But the women knew that the hook and eye business is in a state of bankruptcy while the men who are making elastic bands are riding around in Rolls Royces.

But as long as the theory that E-came from Adams' rib is held and women will have to stand the gaff.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

The many local friends of Mrs. Frank V. Suthers, nee Media Shaw, will be both interested and pleased to learn that Mrs. Suthers has been chosen as soloist at the Greene Memorial church, the largest Methodist church in Roanoke, Va.

The high cost of living is certainly keeping pace or a little ahead of the high cost of living in the country districts, in the upper end of Clearfield county, if one is to judge by the schedule of prices filed in the Clearfield county court when a rural undertaker sought to collect a bill for a funeral. Suit was brought against a man for the funeral expenses of his mother, who died two or three years ago. Here is the itemized bill filed with the notice of suit:—

One oak casket	$175.00
One over box	10.00
Hearse to country	15.00
Personal services at funeral	10.00
Total	$210.00

Pecos, New Mexico, was a flourishing city nine centuries before Columbus discovered America. So say the scientists, headed by Dr. A. V. Kidder, who are excavating the buried ruins of this ancient community.

Pecos in the year 600 is pictured as a walled city, housing a cultured, philosophical people with a democratic form of government. In a good many ways the civilization was highly advanced. Some of the houses were three stories high.

Apparently the people of Pecos float Columbus to "it" by 1,000 years in "discovering" America.

Columbus really arrived late in the day, if the claims of other countries are believed.

The Chinese insist that their Buddhist explorers visited America in the year 432 and that in 464 Hoochin's expedition of Chinese penetrated as far as San Blas, Mexico.

In 995 Bjarni, the Norwegian, was driven out of his course and sailed

along what apparently was the eastern coast of Canada, in sight of land.

Eight years later Thorwald, the Scandinavian, is believed by some historians to have explored Long Island and the New England coast, being buried on the shore of Massachusetts bay after being killed by Indians.

Others who left evidence, well worth considering, that they visited America ahead of Columbus, were Thorfin of Iceland, Madoc of Wales and Nicolo Zeno.

Despite the condition of the roads up the mountain, the Penfield road continues to be the mecca for a large number of tourists and travelers, who seem to take delight in exploring the wild lands through which this road passes, with its occasional glimpse of a deer, pheasant or other denizen of the wild, to say nothing of the repulsive rattler which also occasionally disputes the right of way.

Kennedy Park Game Reserve, is located midway between Clearfield and Penfield, on the top of the mountain, seven miles from Clearfield, and this delightful spot is always the stopping place for all travelers. Keeper L. D. Reaick and his good wife make everybody feel at home and the former takes a great deal of pleasure in showing the visitors about the place, where he has a regular zoo, containing foxes, groundhogs, rabbits, skunks, and a fawn.

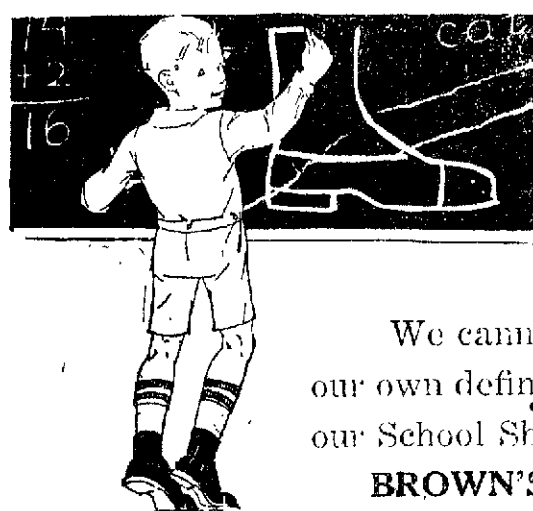

On July 11th last Mr. Reaick secured a register and asked all his guests to register upon their arrival. During the two months ending Sept. 11th, no less than 1838 names were written in the book. An examination of the book shows the visitors came from all over the United States and Canada, while one party was from far off Scotland.

In commenting on his visitors Reaick said: "They all say the scenery is grand; the water pure; the air fine; the zoo wonderful, but the roads—!" With which latter observation all who travel the road up the mountain will agree.

Dangerous Method.

"What are your usual modes of punishment?" was among the questions submitted to a teacher in a rural district in Ohio. Her answer was, "I try moral suasion first, and if that does not work I use capital punishment. As it was a neighborhood where moral suasion had not been a success, and the children were scarce, the committee took no risks.

woman. The doctor sat beside the woman in the hearse and sought to make the trip over the mountain roads as comfortable for her as possible.

At the hospital, Dr. Bryson repeated to attach the story that the woman shot herself. Mrs. Haines, however, realizing she was dying, summoned the district attorney and in the presence of witnesses told how she and Dr. Bryson had quarrelled. She related how he had pursued her to the second floor, how he broke down the door of the room into which she fled, and then fired several shots at her. The woman died a few hours after making this statement.

On the afternoon of April 9, Bruce Haines, of Washington, D. C. saw newspaper dispatches telling of the slaying of "Mrs. Bryson." Haines declared the slain woman was his wife and that she met Bryson while employed in a government bureau in Washington. Haines said the woman deserted him.

The murder was a terrific shock to Bryson's aged mother, who believed her son to be practicing medicine in New York State. She was entirely ignorant of her son's clandestine relations with Mrs. Haines in Cassville, but nevertheless will assist in his defense, it was said.

HOW TO KEEP YOUR BABY WELL

A Very Talk To Mothers Issued Through The Babies' Prophylactic Clinic, Henry Phipps Institution 7th and Lombard Streets.

BAV'S PLAY AND TOYS

Your baby will not be harmed by a few moments' play now and then. A young, delicate or nervous baby needs st and quiet. But even for a strong baby, much play is too exciting.

Of course you like to hear your baby laugh and crow, but often the things you do to try to make him laugh such as tickling him or tossing him about, only make him cross and fitable.

Don't kiss your baby on the mouth, and don't let other people kiss him on the mouth.

Don't rock him or jump him up and down or shake his crib. He will only get into the habit of needing their attentions.

Of course you need not leave him alone entirely. Your baby needs "mothering" and it will do no harm to take him up once in while and hold him quietly in your arms in different positions so that he does not become too tired.

As he gets older teach your child to sit on the floor or in hispen or crib while he is awake, so that you do not overtax your strength in taking care of him.

Toys.

Your baby's toys must be such that they can be washed; because baby lies to put everything in his mouth. His toys must have no sharp corners or points.

Don't give him painted and hairy and woolly toys, or anything small enough to swallow, or toys with loose parts.

Rubber and celluloid toys are excellent, especially these that float. But watch your baby so that he does not bite them to pieces.

Do not let him have too many toys at one time. A few things will satisfy him and simple toys will usually amuse him just as easily as the more expensive kind. See how a string of spoons, a spoon or an empty talcum powder can will delight him.

Be sure to wash all of his toys often and, when possible, boil them to keep them nice and clean.

Prefer Ice Packs.

Physicians today are making use of ice-packs in the treatment of pneumonia and other pulmonary maladies, whereas 25 years ago hot applications were prescribed exclusively.

The old style asylum with its little denizens, clothed and fed in monotonous similarity and cared for in doses, without the individual attention each child needs, is a relic of the discard, as in congruous in this age as the old style mad house, according to Dr. John M. Baldy, Commissioner of Public Welfare.

The new policy of the state department of Public Welfare, said Dr. Ellen C. Potter, chief of the Children's Bureau of Public Welfare Department, is toward the placing of children "in the home."

Caring for orphans by securing individual private homes for them is infinitely better for the child, as well as cheaper, and more efficient from the point of view of the state, according to Dr. Potter. This "placement method" is now being used in but one county in the state, Bradford. The "placement officer," a capable woman, attends to the finding proper homes for the children and then to supervising the placements, to make sure that the child is properly cared for. In some cases the family of adoption takes over the entire expense of caring for the child and in others the authorities pay in part or the whole for the child's upkeep.

A CONSTRUCTIVE ARMY

The other day Company A, of the First Battalion, 102nd Engineers, built a bridge across the Annesville Creek, near Peekskill, N. Y., at a point several hundred feet wide, in 52 minutes. Company D built a similar bridge in 54 minutes, and other companies performed the feat in a little over an hour.

The army is trained to destroy, except for the Engineers, whose work is constructive. Even their work, in time of war, is destined to be destroyed, to a large degree. The Engineers have done a great deal in a systematic way to develop the science of engineering. The army has accomplished a great deal more in training large numbers of men to a high degree of efficiency in a most worth while profession. It is an achievement for a group of men to build a practical bridge several hundred feet long in less than an hour, or quickly and efficiently to build a good road, or do any of the thousand other things that the Engineers are trained to do, and to do well.

It is a pity that the work of this department of the army should be minimized. Destroying lives and property is going out of date, and with it will go those huge instruments of destruction, the armies and navies of the world. But the constructive part of them will be left. Why not use the organization and tremendous energy and resources at the disposal of the government to train men how to live, and not to destroy lives?

THE SQUARE DEAL COUNTS

Dr. Wegener, a celebrated German geologist, tells the British Association that the American continent is moving and widening the distance between itself and Europe. Strange action for a continent, which ought, above all things, to be stable and to stand hatched. And yet geology tells that the far-off history of this old world witnessed many things almost as strange. Snail shells on the tops of mountains prove that where the mountains are was once the bottom of the sea. The coal mines of Pennsylvania are easier to work because long ago the old earth humped its back and made the Appalachian ridge. So maybe the German savant is right.

But in effect the truth of this doesn't amount to much to anyone now alive. Of much greater importance is the relation of the two continents in the affairs of men. The fact that America has grown rich while Europe has become nearly bankrupt is of more consequence. The fact that the people who are proud of a much older civilization and culture than ours owe us upwards of $11,000,000,000 is more likely to cause a dangerous split than any movement of the continent.

There ought to be wisdom enough among these enlightened peoples to begin now to build a bridge. The book people say there is a big demand for transactions. That will help tear down the barriers of language.

The people on either side of the Atlantic will get much farther seeking to give each other the square deal than they will by stewing over a continental drift.

What Education Has Done For The United States

By Dr. John M. Thomas, President of the Pennsylvania State College

DR. JOHN M. THOMAS
President of the Pennsylvania State College

Three hundred years ago this present year the first attempt to set up a public school system in this country met with a temporary reversal. The Indian War of 1622 delayed for a time the educational plan of the little Virginia colony. But it was not long before the rude beginnings of American education had definitely established themselves upon these shores. It was not long before Boston took action to the end that near Dr. Philipine Permort shall be entrusted to become school master for teaching and nurturing children with us," and it was only a year later that Harvard College was established.

Down through the three centuries that separate that time from this, our educational system has grown until in its states we now have a system of education that, for diversity of curriculum and democracy of spirit, is surpassed in all the world. We have not yet reached a stage where we dare to say that America is the center of the educational world. With the old centers of learning still gathering to graduate students of the cultural subjects, it would be presumptuous of our part to make such a claim.

Yet we have seen some indication that the world begins to look not so much to Paris and Vienna and London for its leadership as to America. We have seen fine art objects brought to us from other shores, and have all else we have seen the vocational school attaining its highest development in this country.

Better Living Standard

Probably the greatest work of the people of the United States has been a general elevation of the standard of living to a point higher than that reached by the people of any other country. Those who have reached the topmost pinnacle of usefulness in this country have climbed to a position no less high than their brothers in fame throughout the world. But it is not by the success or fame of the few that American education is to be measured, but rather by the high plane upon which the great unknown average man and woman stand.

American education and American democracy, which has been its greatest product, have meant the betterment of the standards of the home and of business. They have meant that millions of homes have lived in greater appreciation of the conditions and joys of life surrounding them. They have meant that the young women who were to be the wives of the future, or the teachers of youth, have been trained in the culture of better living. No corner of the American home has been left untouched by American education. Whether in the homely arts of plain cooking or in the cultivation of the fine arts, the school has taken an effective place.

And so, too, has the middle-class American business. The age of barbarism has long since passed, and the time has come when the business man is realizing more and more that it is only devotion to principle and sound economics that has brought American industry and banking to their present positions of security. He is coming to realize that only an education with some understanding of the laws of economics can guard the safety of American practice in government and business. And so, at the present time, for instance, the American people, through the education that represents them, are making intelligent decisions of inflation of currency, or of the war if it will be only because of the education that has instilled in us some knowledge of the working of economic laws and some ability to prophesy on the basis of history.

Education in Pennsylvania So much has education done for the United States, specifically, what has it done for Pennsylvania?

In agriculture alone the service of education has been great. One needs no extensive statistics to note the better education of the farmer of today as compared with the backward rustic of the past. This is for his laboratory the vast field under his cultivation, he is developing a new science in the chemistry of the soil and of fertilizers, in bacteriology, in plant pathology, and in the beginning of accurate accounts.

Yet there are statistics to tell of the growing interest of young farmers in scientific agriculture. Out of 100 young farm managers or owners, 97 are graduates of the Pennsylvania State College, and 97 are graduates of the state, 97 were found to have attended high school, the majority of them having taken courses in vocational schools.

And thus through high school which give one half of their time to instruction in agriculture or home economics during the first two years of the pupil's course and as much more optionally during the next two years, Pennsylvania, which ranks seventh in agriculture among the states, is laying a foundation in farming that will keep her in the forefront among the agricultural districts of the world.

Nor is it alone among the vocational high schools that training for particular callings is being given. Through the courses in agriculture, mining, engineering, natural science, and home economics, given by the Pennsylvania State College, vocational education of more advanced grade and even of graduate grade is open to students of this state.

Is It Justified?

And if this public education system, if the Pennsylvania State College, which is at the apex of that system, have succeeded in lessening disease among nations, in making living safer, in solving greater problems of engineering, and in making life more livable, that system is justified. It is with confidence in what its graduates have been able to do and in the increased service that it desires to give, that the Pennsylvania State College now seeks to become a University in name as well as in fact, looking toward the enrollment of 10,000 students. It is to serve industry of every sort to greater advantage that the College seeks to provide for expansion to a size more nearly commensurate with the demands now made upon it.

The woman, dead from bullet wounds, was found Saturday under an apple tree in a rustic lane of Somerset County.

Mrs. Hal told them, the detectives said, that, becoming worried over the failure of her husband to return home, she had gone to his church to see if he had been detained there. She said she had been accompanied by William Steven, her brother.

Ratify All Treaties Is SEPTEMBER TERM OF CRIMINAL COURT OPENED HERE TODAY

Belief Of Capital But Process Is Slow

Washington, Sept. 18. (United Press) — While nearly ten months have passed since the opening of the Washington Arms Conference and many of the many treaties signed have been ratified by all parties, the ratification of the treaties will eventually be completed by all governments involved, high administration officials believe.

Opened by one of the frankest and severest in diplomatic circles, when Secretary of State Hughes called the purpose of the conference was to bring about the ratification of the treaties by all governments involved, high administration officials believe.

Each of the first two of the treaties had been ratified by three of the signers, the United States, Great Britain, and Japan having notified the other powers of their acceptance of the pact. Neither France nor Italy have acted upon the pact.

While none of the three powers who have already ratified the agreements have made any amendments or reservations, and it is not thought that France will make any changes, Italy has withheld final action until France has made her definite decision.

Owing to the geographical position of the two countries, the government at Rome feels it necessary to the welfare of the country that any reservations or amendments made by France must be claimed by the government. It is thought in some circles here that the three great powers already agreeing to the treaty will carry them out regardless of the action of France.

The terms of German reparations have been greatly absorbed the interest of France for some months past, the action of the government has not been turned upon the added by the positive action of the United States, which has been evasive, and how that regardless of the action of the present powers, the United States will be unwilling to pay a penny more in the future.

The September term of criminal court opened this morning with Judge Singleton Bell on the bench and about the largest number of cases listed for trial in the history of the county.

The morning session was largely devoted to the hearing of motions and petitions, no case being called for trial before the noon recess.

Jury duty does not appear to be the most pleasant occupation just about this time. Before taking up the list, Judge Bell stated that no juror could be excused from jury duty at this time, but any juror who desired to be excused would please advance to Clerk Raiston's desk, give the clerk his name and reason for asking to be excused, then if he found it possible later to release any person from jury duty he would be in position to pass upon the matter intelligently and allow those with the most pressing necessity to be excused. One fifth of the entire panel for the week stepped forward and asked to be excused.

TRINITY CHURCH EVENTS

Yesterday the Bible School, with its steady increase in attendance listened to an address by Miss Laura Gilliland. Many strangers were in the various services of the day. Two infants were baptized. Holy Communion was held both morning and evening with a sermon at night on "The Ethics of the Cross," also, at Mount Zion, with a sermon on Christ the High Priest.

The great group gathering has left a deep impression. The conference session was a stirring one. For the young people's rally, under E. C. Keeney, Sunday Schools and leagues attended. Curwensville had the record with 49, then came Clearfield circuit with 39. The splendid address of Mr. Frank Rines, from the Washington Area office, with the screen slides, will be long discussed.

This week's meeting, Wednesday afternoon, Woman's Home Missionary Society, evening, mid week congregational meeting, Friday, 4 p. m. Junior League, Next Sunday, Rally Day 666.

the Washington agreements.

The third of the important treaties has been ratified by four of the nine powers whose signatures were attached at the close of the Washington conference, the United States, Great Britain, Japan and China. Ratification by the other powers of this quartette of the integrity of China is expected at any time, it was learned.

Influence of the Pacific pact has already been felt, it is thought here. Ugly mutterings relating to possible trouble between the United States and Japan, which were heard consistently before the conference, have ceased and a new feeling of understanding has arisen which will tend to preserve the peace between the two nations. This has been greatly aided by the positive action of the United States, which has been evasive, and how that regardless of the action of the present powers, the United States will be unwilling to pay a penny more in the future.

REV. E. V. BROW IS SELECTED TO PILOT LOCAL DEMOCRATS

The local Democratic committee-men have started their fall campaign by choosing E. V. Brown as borough chairman. This action was taken at a meeting last week of the committee chairman from the different wards and Chairman Brown has already started to work to map a campaign.

The borough organization will be completed by the election of a secretary and other officers at a meeting to be held at county headquarters on Locust street tomorrow evening.

At Tuesday evening's meeting, a borough chairman for the town's organization, together with ward precinct chairmen for all the precincts of the different wards will so be named.

Borough Chairman Brown proposes to wage a vigorous campaign toward getting the Democratic vote out in the borough, something he says has been very much neglected the past few years. He feels that inasmuch as Clearfield Democrats have been honored by having one of their number, Fred B. Kerr, selected as the nominee for United States Senator; another, Hon. J. Frank Snyder, as nominee for Congress, and a third, William I. Betts, for State Senator, they should make a special effort to rally to their support and all get out to the polls on election day.

Near the Dividing Line.

Robert was anxious to attend kindergarten with Billy, but he was not quite four years old. One day he went as a visitor, and before leaving he slipped up to the teacher and said: "Please, can't I come to your school? I'm just on the edge of four."

DUBOIS SHOPMEN WENT TO WORK THIS MORNING

After an illness that has continued since July 1st, at which time a strike was declared nationally on practically all of the railroad of the country on the part of the shopmen, the men employed by the B. R. & P. railroad will return to work this morning, an agreement having been reached on Saturday afternoon. As a matter of fact some of the employees of the road went to work yesterday at the local shops, and beginning this morning it is expected that there will be large accessions to the number employed, and that within a short time the shops will be running at full speed.

The agreement was reached following a conference held Saturday at the offices of Superintendent of Motive Power E. V. Williams, and was participated in by officials of the B. R. & P. officers of the B. R. & P. Federation, including General Chairman John McNeil, Jr., Secretary Leonard Singer, William J. Smith, of the Machinists; George Rick of the Sheet Metal Workers; Thos. J. Whelan, of the Car Builders; John Flanagan, of the Finemen and Others; and Ralph Tuxal, of the Electricians. PRESIDENT Phil W.

HARDING EXPECTED TO VETO SOLDIER BONUS MEASURE

Washington, Sept. 18.—Information that President Harding has made up his mind definitely to veto the "bonus" bill reached Senate leaders from some of his close advisers. They said his message of disapproval would be sent to the House Tuesday.

After receiving this word, the matter of fact some of the employees of the road went to work yesterday at the local shops, and beginning this morning it is expected that there will be large accessions to the number employed, and that within a short time the shops will be running at full speed.

The measure was understood, however, to be regarded by some friends of the President as too narrow, and they expected Mr. Harding to call several senators to the White House before Tuesday for a discussion of the situation.

With many senators absent from Washington, it was asserted by some that it was difficult to get a Senate without of this time.

Mr. Galatin is hale and hearty Rhine family, the first child in the line, and in the open and plenty of outdoor exercise. His ability is remarkable for a man of his years and is envied by many a man much younger in years.

found in the inner chamber.

When, after two hours' searching, no word had come from the interior of the mine, the patience of the hundreds of waiters outside was about exhausted, but experienced miners consoled the worried men, women and children who have kept vigil for more than three weeks, by telling them that progress within the mine would be slow. There are innumerable small openings to be gone thru, many ladders to be descended and all manner of obstructions to be overcome. They said it would be necessary to proceed with caution every foot of the way as it is not known what physical change has taken place in the mine and where pockets of gas may have formed. There is no information to the effect that the searchers have found additional caverns or any other impediments that will prevent a rescue being made.

RAIL FOREMAN'S HOME IS DYNAMITED AT PITTSBON

Pittsbon, Pa., Sept. 18.—The home of Michael McKenna, foreman in the railway shops here, was dynamited last night, presumably by strike sympathizers who had expressed their opinion that Mr. McKenna should have quit work with the strikers. The house was considerably damaged, but the family who were asleep at the time escaped unhurt.
